

FOIA b3b

My source in Havana claims that it wasn't pneumonia that killed Fidel Castro—it was a couple of angry bullets. . . . So the way the reason Dolores Gray, the star of that shoot-'em-up Broadway Western, "Destry Rides Again," checked into a hospital was to have a bullet removed. Nothing to do with the show, she's carried the lead around for years following an accidental shooting. . . . One of the reasons Poland wasn't represented in this year's Miss Universe contest is that last year's entry, Suzanne Gembrowski, liked Freedom so much she remained here to work for cosmetics giant Revlon. As a flying soldier of fortune, not a member of the military, I understand that U-2 pilot Francis Power's salary while on active duty (and as a prisoner-of-cold-war) hits $700 weekly. . . . Halbrook tells about the Russian ballet master who pulled a great coup. He's bringing Bolshoi over there for a tour!